It is many-sided, and when carried out conscientiously plays a useful part, whether in town or country. From the most ancient times public rest-houses and hostelries have been an integral part of the daily life of the nation. Centuries ago these were oft times under the wing of some great monastery, the most frequent goal of the traveller. In modern times it has been regarded as essential to the business prosperity of any town to be possessed of good hotels and restaurants, for these are admitted conveniences to civilised life in any community. Most certainly to-day, with our many activities, our constant goings and comings, we cannot do without them. It is a curious fact that in Great Britain the social and commercial revolution brought about by...
